The 2016 UNGASS on drugs was a major milestone in global drug policy, with unprecedented visibility given to health, human rights and development. The UNGASS is widely acknowledged as the trigger for national reforms, while paving the way for key international developments. Since then, the world has faced dramatic changes which have impacted both global drug markets and the policies aiming to address them. At the occasion of the 10-year anniversary of the UNGASS, this event will analyse the global state of play in drug policy, reflect on progress and challenges, and consider possible paths forward.
